Garbage problems discussed by council

Village council decided Monday night to seek approval from the Department of Energy and Resources Management for a one-month extension of the deadline for closing Stirling's municipal garbage disposal area.

The dump was ordered closed at the end of June, but it has been kept open until alternative arrangements could be made for disposing of the village's refuse.

Negotiations have been under way for some time with Douglas Cooney who has agreed to accept Stirling's garbage at a site east of Frankford on the Foxboro Road.

Reeve Robert Anderson told council that Mr. Cooney expects to receive approval of his plans from the Ontario Water Resources Commission by mid-July.

Meanwhile, Clerk W.L. Pollock has been instructed to seek an official extension, so that Stirling can maintain use of its present dump without fear of being prosecuted.

Main concern is that the village may be charged by the Air Pollution authorities for allowing burning at the dump.

To get around this problem, council agreed to set up controls for operating the dump, as a temporary measure, until new facilities are available.

Council agreed, that if an extension of time were granted, that village foreman Frank Broekema would be asked to oversee the operation, to ensure that no burning occurred. A gate would be erected at the entrance to the dump, and dumping would be allowed Tuesday to Friday between 9 a.m., and 5 p.m., and on Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon.

Just before press time, Mr. Pollock said he had been unsuccessful in reaching the waste management people, and was still uncertain as to whether an extension of the deadline might be granted.

TREE PLANTING AT OAK HILLS GOLF COURSE

An extensive tree planting program has been under way at the Oak Hills Golf Course for the last month. Officials at the course have rented a $10,000 tree transplanter for a month.

The transplanter can uproot and re-plant trunks up to four inches in diameter.

Tree transplanting at local golf club

Workmen at the Oak Hills Golf Course have been busy for the last month transplanting trees throughout the 18 hole course.

The Oak Hills Golf Club has rented a $10,000 tree transplanter from Toronto to complete the task of planting approximately 200 trees.

The machine, which is run by hydraulics, has four large blades, slanted downward to form a cone. These blades are raised and then driven into the ground. The four blades are withdrawn at the same time and a cone shaped hole, approximately four feet deep and three wide at the top, is created.

The machine, along with the cone of soil, is hauled to the Iroquois Camp Site, north of Frankford on Highway 33. The camp site has an excess of trees in one section and is supplying the golf course with these trees.

When the machine arrives the cone of soil is discarded. Using the same process with the blades, a tree, roots included, is picked up by the machine. The cone of soil from the golf course is then placed in the empty hole left by the removal of the tree and its roots.

The tree is then taken back and lowered into the previously made hole at the golf course.

The trees average between 20 and 25 feet in height. The tree transplanter can handle trees with trunks up to four inches in diameter.

The trees will replace many of the elms that had to be cut down, marking the fairways of the course.

New column in News-Argus

With this edition, the News-Argus inaugurates a new devotional column entitled Weekly Meditation. The first column, written by Rev. Roy A. Taylor, newly-ordained minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, appears on Page 5.

Local clergymen have kindly agreed to write a devotional message each week, on a rotating basis, in the hope they will contribute to the spiritual life of Stirling and surrounding district.

Streets marked

Much-needed and long-awaited street markings in downtown Stirling were being painted last evening as we were going to press. The new white lines add a great deal to the appearance of the village, as well as aid motorists with parking and intersections.

Rollins will report Thursday

In a letter read at Monday night's meeting, Clarke Rollins, MLA for Hastings, said he was doing everything possible to discover what is holding up construction of a 12 unit senior citizens building on Church St., in Stirling.

Mr. Rollins said he had been in touch with the provincial department in charge of the project and was promised an answer by July 8, at which time he would pass the information along to local officials.

The Ontario Housing Corporation has approved the construction of an additional 12 units, but council would like to see some action on the first complex before a second undertaking gets started.

Senior Citizens plan picnic

The Senior Citizens were out in force last Thursday. The prize winners were Florence Hough, Helen Williams and Mary Cooke, while for the men Fred Heasman and dis ole Scribe had to draw for first and second as they were tied. Fred drew an ace and the Scribe drew a king of the same suit.

Two visitors were welcomed, Alice Cronkwright and Helen Williams. President Fred Heasman didn't want to toot his own horn but the lunch was a Heasman affair supervised by John Kane. Some unknown person donated two boxes of chocolates. Thanks to all.

The Senior Citizen's District picnic will be held at Cobourg Park on July 14. A bus will leave the United Church parking lot at 12:30 on that date. This will be a pot luck supper. Will the members please pay their dollar by July 8 so that we may know how many non members can go at $2.00 a person. We will probably have about five seats extra besides the members quota. Bob Patterson will act as treasurer for this fund.

"She was only the optician's daughter--two glasses and she made a spectacle of herself." dis ole Scribe.

G.H. Hogle dissatisfied

Stirling funeral director G.H. Hogle has warned assessment officials that unless he is given a considerable reduction in municipal assessment on properties he owns on James and Gore Sts., the assessment is likely to be lost.

Village council Monday night heard read copies of a letter sent recently to the area assessment authority, along with the reply he received.

Mr. Hogle sought a reduction in his 1971 assessment, retroactive to 1969.

The letter of reply began by stating that the law does not permit any retroactive adjustments in assessments. It noted further that a county judge established an assessed value in 1969 and the Assessment Review Court reduced Mr. Hogle's 1970 assessment slightly.

The letter of reply went on to say that Mr. Hogle was premature in appealing his 1971 assessment, since the notices have not yet gone out.

Bank open house this Friday

Local Bank of Montreal staff are celebrating completion of their new premises with a party for Stirling residents this Friday.

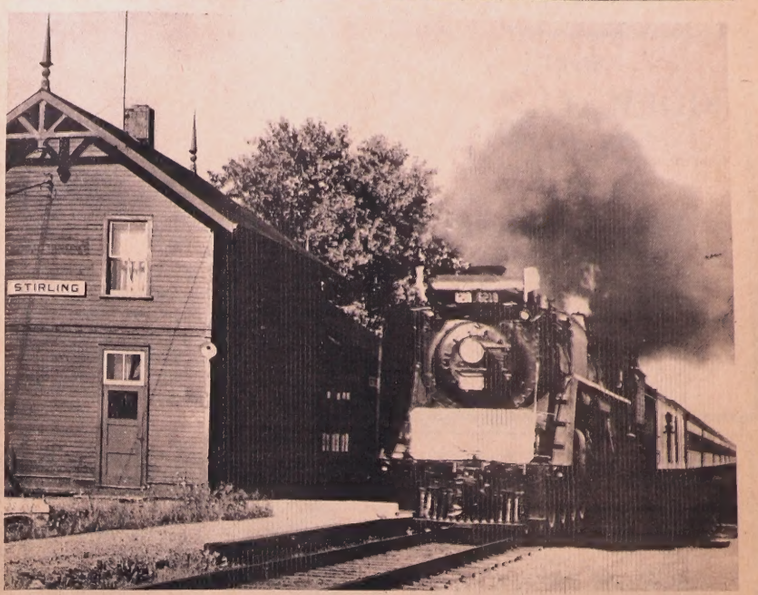
Manager D. C. Dillabough says "We're glad the year-long construction is over and we also want to thank the people of the Stirling area for their support of the bank in its 69 years here."

There will be an "open house" at the new octagonal office on Friday, between 3 and 9 p.m. Area residents are invited to join the bank staff for refreshments and tours of the new B of M quarters. A ribbon-cutting ceremony is scheduled for 8 p.m., with Reeve R. E. Anderson officiating.

The bank, with its 2030 square feet of floor space, is equipped with five tellers' wickets and two private coupon booths.

Architects for the project were Watson and Wiegand of Belleville and construction was by Welger de Jong of Stirling.

The previous office was built in 1909. The cash safe from that office has been donated to the local Masonic Lodge and the outside clock has been presented to the town, for use in the arena.



A RELIC OF THE PAST

Stirling played host to railway buffs from near and far over the weekend, on the occasion of the final runs for 6218, the last of the main line steam locomotives owned by the CNR. On Saturday and Sunday, to mark the retirement of the old engine, excursion runs were made between Belleville and Anson Junction. Stirling station was a popular spot for spectators to gather for a last look at the "iron steed." Retirement ceremonies took place in Belleville on Sunday afternoon.

New dunking game highlight of fair

Stirling will be the entertainment capital of the Quinte area next Monday night as the local Rotary Club stages its annual Summer Fair on Mill St.

Everything is in readiness for a gala night, with citizens expected to flock to the event in large numbers from Stirling and the surrounding area.

Games of all kinds will be in operation, in addition to the street dance. The Trumpet Group, featuring John Devries and the Boys from Belleville and Trenton have promised a 'truckload of music.'

During the evening, draws will take place with prizes of $100, $50 and $25 offered to the lucky winners. Tickets are available from club members and local merchants.

Proceeds from the event will be used in support of the Rotary Club's various projects which include: swimming classes for local children, financial assistance for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, student loans, rehabilitation of crippled children and general welfare work.

A highlight of this year's fair will be a Dunking Pond Game from which the victims - the reeves of Stirling and three surrounding townships - are expected to emerge completely water-logged. Everyone will have a chance as Rotary president Elwood Bateman says, to "strike back" at his reeve, by participating in this hilarious game which is coming to Stirling for the first time.

Reeves Robert Anderson of Stirling, Jack Bush of Sidney, Ray Shortt of Rawdon and Russell Sills of Huntingdon are reported to have been seen purchasing heavy duty life jackets this week as they prepare for a gruelling contest.

Tenders awarded

Village council Monday night awarded tenders for priming several streets and for the construction of 4,000 square feet of sidewalk.

Only one tender was received for each project.

The H.J. McFarland Construction Co. was the lone bidder on the street work. The company offered to prime and lay a sand cover on certain streets at a total cost of $1,847.

Wilfred Spencer offered to construct the sidewalk at a cost of 65 cents per square foot.

Copying machine idea rejected

No action was taken by Stirling village council Monday night on the subject of purchasing a copying machine, offered to the municipality at a cost of $800.

Clerk W.L. Pollock told council a firm had quoted the above price. As an alternative, the village could rent the same machine, on which it could make up to 2,000 copies per month, at a cost of $146 per month, including supplies used. In the event the village decided at a later date to purchase the machine, $45 of the monthly rental fee could be applied toward the purchase price.

It was generally agreed that the cost quoted for the machine was prohibitive, considering the amount of use it would get in Stirling.

"I doubt if we would need 2,000 copies in a year," said Mr. Pollock.

Members of council seemed more interested in a suggestion put forward by Councillor Maurice Montgomery that the village make use of a local Gestetner service. He said this method would be much more economical.

Swimming classes coming

Registrations are now being invited from parents desirous of enrolling their children in swimming classes.

The Stirling Rotary Club once again is sponsoring swimming instruction, for a 10-day period beginning Aug. 3, at the YMCA pool in Belleville.

Graham Mouck, Crest Hardware, and Rudy Klompmaker, Stirling Food Market, are accepting registration fees of $5.00. Applicants may fill out a registration blank in an advertisement found elsewhere in this newspaper.

Bus transportation will be provided daily to and from the pool.

STUDENT OF THE YEAR

Miss Maryalice Bissell, who recently graduated from Grade Eight, won the Stirling Public School Proficiency Trophy given to the outstanding student of the year. Miss Bissell was presented with the trophy by Mrs. B. Bell at an assembly on June 29.

Black Creek Village a link with heritage

TORONTO--What was life like in a rural Ontario Village 100 years ago?

One hundred and forty-two students of the Grade eight class of A. T. Clancy School found out on June 28 when they visited historic Black Creek Pioneer Village here with their teacher, Miss Pos.

Black Creek is a living link with our pre-Confederation heritage, where a visitor can experience the same sights, sounds and smells that made up a typical cross-roads community more than a century ago.

The A. T. Clancy School students saw how the theme of the "living" village is maintained at Pioneer Village through costumed villagers and artisans who perform typical pioneer living tasks such as baking cookies and bread, spinning and weaving, black-smithing and many others on a day-to-day basis.

Nucleus of the Village is the Stong farm of five log buildings standing on their original sites, just as they were prior to 1832. Among the buildings that can be visited, are included a general store, church, school, harness shop, blacksmith shop, inn, flour mill, town hall, printing office, and fire house. There is also an outdoor bake oven and flourishing herb garden.

Also a vital part of the Black Creek Pioneer Village atmosphere are the various types of livestock and poultry which were found in any pioneer settlement. These include rare Brahma and Cochin chickens - authentic pioneer breeds which are now almost extinct as well as Pilgrim, Chinese and Canada geese, various species of ducks and 20 Guinea fowl. Visitors can also see oxen, pigs, sheep, cattle and horses.

In addition to the other attractions, visitors can tour the Dalziel Barn Museum, a huge, cantilever barn built in 1809, which contains the largest collection of 19th century toys in Canada, a sugar bush display, flax processing, a woodworking shop and a cooper's shop.

Located at Jane Street and Steeles Avenue in northwest Metro Toronto, Black Creek is being developed by the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority as an education and tourist facility. Since it opened in 1957, more than 1,850,000 people have seen this remarkable recreation of pre-1867 life.

Mr. Heath died Saturday, July 3, at the Belleville General Hospital in his 84th year. He was the son of Henry Heath and the former Agnes McConnell. He was born in Rawdon township and spent his lifetime in the Campbellford area.

He was predeceased by his wife, Flossie May Blake. He had been in failing health for the past five years.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Dorothy Heath, Windsor, Mrs. Blanche Graham, Toronto and one brother, Blake, New Hamburg, Ont., and also is survived by several nieces and nephews.

He was a retired machinist, a former employee of W.C. Stapley Machine Shop, and a member of the United Church of Canada.

EATING TIPS

The man who eats out frequently, either because he is a bachelor, or because business takes him away from home, can control his intake of foods that in crease the risk of heart attack.

A housewife can feed her family fat-controlled, low cholesterol meals by carefully selecting her visible and packaged foods at the supermarket. The man in a restaurant or at a banquet can be a label-reader of sorts, too. He can avoid foods that call for gravy, or scrape it from his portion. He can remove the coating from fried foods, trim the fat from his meat, and use an oil-vinegar dressing on his salad.

Rich desserts may be tempting, but he has a wide selection of fruits or gelatin for dessert. Far from missing anything, he will be avoiding a diet that in itself is a factor in heart disease.

DOLLARS AND GOOD SENSE

The year Richard Nixon graduated from Whittier College in Southern California, the annual cost of education at that school, including tuition, fees, room and board, came to $400.

That was in 1934. Today the bill for a year of education at Whittier totals about $4,760, or almost 600% more than in good old 1934.

Distinguished alumnus and venerable history notwithstanding, Whittier, like hundreds of other private co-educational colleges, shares the problems of skyrocketing costs which have raised the tab for higher education all across North America. Its fees are typical.

Just within the past five years, tuition at private co-educational colleges, like Whittier, has gone up be 36%. College costs have, in fact, doubled even the meteoric rise in costs of living which went up 18% within the same period.

A recent survey of some 1,000 colleges and universities was conducted by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association. Private men's schools in the north eastern U.S. were found to be most expensive, averaging $3,203. Publicly supported schools cost considerable less.

Students attending schools in their own state or district, for example will pay an average of $1,234 for basics such as tuition, fees, room and board. Costs for resident students, however, have gone up by some $300 within the past five years. Out-of-state scholars attending state universities, whose tuition bills are usually higher, will be paying $1,738, almost $500 more than five years ago.

On the other hand, small publicly supported Southern U.S. schools average only $1,047 a year -- a veritable bargain in education these days.

Three out of every four colleges surveyed have increased their tuition and fees since last year, while more than half reported increases in room and board changes. All in all, over 80% of the colleges reported higher total bills for the coming year.

If you're a student or parent of a student thinking about selecting a college to enter, let these figues be your guide.

Summer work con't: When Dahlias are about a foot tall, side shoots may be pinched out to develope a stronger main stalk and larger finer flowers. Continue to pinch back all quick growing herbaceus plants to make them compact. Later disbud for larger blooms.

SWEEP program now under way

Project S.W.E.E.P. is an Ontario Government program providing summer employment for some 2,000 students administered equally and jointly by the Department of Lands and Forests and the Department of Energy and Resources Management. S.W.E.E.P. stands for students working in an Environmental Enhancement Program.

In this area the Moira River and the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authorities are working jointly on a number of programs. 50% of the working time is spent on roadside and shoreline litter clean-up. In the Moira River Region, projects to be undertaken are: improvement of the O'Hara Mill park northwest of Madoc, clearing of brush in the Vanderwater Park east of Thomasburg for a new road, and a start at developing the Conservation Authority's property around Deerock Lake north of Flinton.

In the Lower Trent Region three main projects are being undertaken. The first involves improving the property on which King's Mill is located. It is hoped that the saw-mill located on this property northwest of Stirling will become operative and open to the public within a few years. The second project is concerned with improving the Trent River shoreline along the Glen Miller road north of Highway 401. Perhaps the most ambitious project to be undertaken is the development of the Proctor Park north of Brighton. Here a program of stream improvement and general clean-up is being undertaken.

A force of 17 students is working on these projects. They are easily recognizable by their white hard-hats with green elliptical S.W.E.E.P. emblems. Approximately equal numbers of high school and University students are employed.

Basically this program has two objectives (1) to provide summer employment for students, (2) to make a concrete contribution to improve the environment.

Correction

In a published report from a meeting of Stirling village council held on June 21, it was incorrectly stated that Lorne Watson had suggested leaving his garbage at the Agricultural Office in order to have it picked up weekly by the village garbage crew.

In a letter to council, Mr. Watson said only that he was looking into the possibility of leaving his garbage at a convenient pickup site within the village. No mention was made of the site he had in mind.

Council agreed to take Mr. Watson's garbage, at a cost of 50 cents per week, even though his residence is outside the village.

Water scum is problem

A sharp increase in the number of complaints regarding water containing a mustard yellow scum has been received by Ontario Water Resources Commission's biology branch this year. The scum is most prevalent in the month of June and floats on the surface of the water or accumulates along shorelines and beaches. It is due to the presence of pine pollen and should not be mistaken for algae.

Pollen from coniferous trees usually appears yellow while pollen from some of the deciduous trees is sandy brown or grey. The pollen finds its way into the lakes and streams when high winds transport it from the surrounding forest. It is buoyant and easily blown across the surface of the water. Enroute to shore it traps floating algae and other aquatic debris. The accumulation of material that reaches the shore may be aesthetically unpleasant and can cause malodorous conditions when it decomposes.

In most instances, pine pollen will not be a health hasard. It will probably be blown away when the wind changes direction and will eventually break down or become trapped in the sediment at the bottom of a watercourse. The condition is, in fact, now beginning to taper off.

OWRC speculates that the increase in complaints this year was due to a greater public awareness of pollution conditions caused by excessive growths of algae.

Proper eating habits may help avoid heart attack, the Ontario Heart Foundation says. Ask it for education materials of interest.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Strange Togetherness

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I am 44, my husband is 46. We have three boys 8, 11 and 14. On several occasions, we separated but always got back together before any legal action became final-not because of any particular desire for closeness, but because we felt the boys needed us. Yet there seems little hope of our ever becoming close in the full sense of the word, because our approaches to life are so different. Although we don't seem to communicate at all, we are civil and try to keep our home running as smoothly as possible. When the boys grow up and leave home, we'll undoubtedly go our separate ways. In fact, I'm looking forward to that day. In the meantime.... there's probably little you could advise us, but to "stick it out" until the boys finish school and are on their own.

M. W., Baltimore, Md.

Dear M. W.:

Since you've already anticipated the "advice" you might receive, why not try instead to think things through more clearly for yourself. Consider what it's like for those boys to have parents who are outwardly together, but virtually strangers to one another. What effect do you think this might have on their lives? How might it affect their attitudes toward themselves in particular, and toward marriage in general? Think about it for a while and see if you come up with the same "advice" for yourself.

On Being A Problem-Solver

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I am 45, married and have two teen-age younsters, a boy and a girl. I always feel I have so many problems bothering me that I can't ever seem to make any headway on. I don't even know which ones to begin with. What a mess my life seems to be in! I'd greatly appreciate any ideas you might have for straightening myself out.

R.A., Biloxi, Miss.

Dear R. A.:

If you're looking for a way to deal with your problems, one expert has these suggestions: First of all, accept the fact that a problem is something to be resolved, rather than sighed about, brooded about or bellyached about. Next, try to spell out what each problem is. If you can put each of your difficulties in writing, this may help you define it more clearly and precisely. (Writing it down can make your thinking more exact.) Also set down in writing all the possible solutions to each problem. Finally, select the solution that seems best under the circumstances and energetically set to work achieving it. Once you make up your mind you're going to be a problem-tackler, the expert says, you'll find you have the energy needed to solve it. He also points out that the true problem solver is the person who calmly accepts the fact that life is difficult and that people are far from perfect.

Cook in position to lengthen life

The woman in the kitchen is in the important position of being able to reduce her family's risk of heart disease. The Ontario Heart Foundation suggests that she, too, can give a gift-the gift of better health and longer life to her loved ones through improved eating habits.

This will call for some changes in daily meal planning. The aim should be to cut down on foods rich in animal (saturated) fats and cholesterol, which increase the level of cholesterol in the blook. High blood cholesterol has been linked to development of atherosclerosis, the disease which underlies most heart attacks.

To achieve this aim, the housewife can serve more meals of fish, chicken, veal and turkey and less beef, lamb, pork and ham. She can replace whole milk with skim milk, and hard cheese with cheese products made from skim milk. She also can cut down on the use of egg yolks, which are very high in cholesterol.

Instead of using butter for a spread, the housewife can serve the soft margarines that are rich in polyunsaturated fats.

Similarly, rather than use lard and other solid cooking fats, she can substitute the polyunsaturated vegetable oils. The latter can be used, for example, to brown lean meats, or to fry fish and poultry; in cream sauces and soups made with skim milk; for making hot breads, pie crust and cakes; for making cocktail snacks and, in cooking dehydrated potatoes and other prepared foods which call for the addition of fats.

To round out her daily selection of foods for a balanced diet, the housewife also should include vegetables, fruit, breads, and cereals. In this way she can maintain good nutrition for her family, and at the same time, help them to adopt new eating habits that are designed to protect their hearts.

The earlier the homemaker puts these recommendations into practice, the greater the assurance of many more happy days for all the family.

Further information and interesting recipes can be obtained from the Ontario Heart Foundation at 247 Davenport Road.

Set official opening date

Although the building is only about one-quarter completed, an official opening date has been chosen for Bayside Secondary School.

County board of education trustees decided last week to set up a committee of trustees, representatives of the administration and school staff to plan for an opening ceremony on the Tuesday of Education Week, in March, 1972.

The March opening date was chosen because the weather is expected to be "reasonably clement", and the school personnel "should have organization well in hand by that time."

Target date for completion of the school is Jan. 1, 1972, when students will move in.

CLARENCE B. ROLLINS

Clarence Bernard Rollins, a retired barber, of 18 Emma St., Stirling died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, July 3, 1971 in his 69th year. He is survived by his wife, the former Bernice Belshaw and two children, Mrs. Carolyn McInroy, Belleville, and Paul of Belleville and also by three grandchildren, Allan, Ann and Kevin.

Mr. Rollins was the brother of Mrs. Albert (Pearl) Cooke, Harold; Mrs. Donald (Edna) Campbell, Stirling; Mrs. Howard (Tilley) Cooke, West Huntington; Harry and Carl Rollins, Belleville. He was deceased by Fleming Rollins overseas, and Mrs. Garfield (Anne) Reynolds.

Mr. Rollins was a former member of the Stirling Village council, a member of the Stirling Masonic Lodge 69, and resident of Stirling for 50 years.

Funeral service was held on Tuesday, July 6 at 1:30 p.m. from Hogle's Funeral Home to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, Rev. Roy A. Taylor officiating. Interment was in Stirling Cemetery.

There was a Masonic Lodge Memorial service on Monday night at 7:45 p.m.

ON TRIAL

In many countries of the world today, even the acknowledgement of one's faith in God is a crime against the state. Thousands of heroic Christians are being persecuted and subjected to imprisonment and hard labor just for the act of bringing the good news of the Gospel of Jesus Christ to their fellow workers. Courageous, selfless, determined, they daily take the risk of years in prison to make Christ known among their friends and acquaintances.

The true Christian citizen loves the world because God loved the world, and gave Himself for it. Do we in our daily lives express that same concern for our fellow man? This is a joyful and beautiful world in which we live, and it is truly too precious to lose; but do we really express the love of God in a true appreciation for that which He has freely given us?

I would like to share with you this poem I read recently, and end this little message with a question.

Listen, Christian
I was hungry,
and you formed a humanities club
and discussed my hunger.
Thank you.

I was imprisoned,
and you crept off quietly
to your chapel in the cellar, and prayed for my release.

I was naked,
and in your mind
you debated the morality of my appearance.

I was sick,
and you knelt and thanked God,
for your health.

I was homeless,
and you preached to me
of the spiritual shelter of the love of God.

I was lonely,
and you left me alone,
to pray for me.

You seem so holy;
so close to God.
But I'm still very hungry,
and lonely,
and cold....

Question: If you were on trial for being a Christian, would there be enough evidence to convict you? THINK ABOUT IT.

So many people helped build our new branch in Stirling that we don't think of the Open House festivities as belonging to us alone.
It's your day, too!
On July 9th, between 3 and 9 p.m., drop by for a sneak preview of the branch you helped make possible. Manager Dwight Dillabough and his staff would like to greet you informally and show you around.
On Monday, July 12, after the official opening day ceremonies, we'd like to show you our complete range of banking facilities.
And if you have any questions about the way you are handling money, ask us. Our branch may be octagonal, but our financial approach is four-square. We want you to get your money's worth.
You're invited to an open house.
Yours.

Mount Pleasant News Items

(by Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

Historic Anson Junction was the scene of a memorable event as crowds gathered to watch the Canadian National Railways' last operating steam engine, No. 6218 pass through on Saturday and Sunday when another milestone in Canadian railroading was completed.

On Sunday at noon over 100 people were at Anson Junction to view the last trip. Sight seers came from many points in Ontario and the United States. A group of photographers took pictures while others picked wild strawberries along the tracks.

Frank Hutchinson began his duties as operator at Anson Junction in 1912 and continued until 1939 when the station was closed and moved elsewhere. In 1912 there were four passenger trains daily on each track going via Campbellford and Belleville or Trenton and Coe Hill.

On Saturday evening, July 3, the Mount Pleasant folk tendered the Hubble family, who have recently taken up residence in Stirling, a presentation party in the church hall.

Bouquets of flowers were used for decoration. Rev. W. C. Cox was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly. Dawn Cox led the sing song with Muriel Sharp as pianist.

Selections were read by Irene Merrick, Gayle Grills and Kenneth Weaver.

A piano selection was played by Heather Hoard.

A vocal duet was given by Isobel Hoard and Kim Andres with Margaret Hoard as accompanist.

Grant, Helen and son, Frank were given seats of honor and Herbert Smith read an appreciative address. Kenneth Weaver made the presentation of a framed scenic picture painted by Madeline McIntosh and to Frank a dish and pen set.

The recipients all voiced sincere thanks for the party and gifts and they invited the group to visit them in their new home in Stirling. This was not a farewell party as the Hubble family will still belong to the Mount Pleasant Community.

The committee in charge served refreshments and all enjoyed a social hour.

MESSENGERS

The Mount Pleasant Messenger group convened at the church hall on Sunday, June 27.

Terry Bailey presided and Suzette Morgan was pianist. Kathy Sharpe read the Scripture lesson and Jacquelin Barrett read the meditation.

Crystalyn Knight and Craig Cox gathered the offering which was dedicated.

Mrs. Stanley Williams gave the devotional message.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell outlined the business and plans were made for the July meeting. She also read a letter of thanks for the Care parcel sent at Christmas time.

The two leaders each synopsized a study chapter for the two groups after which the children enjoyed a game.

The U.C.W. will entertain the messengers at the church hall on Wednesday evening, July 14. The ladies are asked to bring two articles for the fish pond. The children will provide the program.

New bank officially opened Friday

A traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony on Friday night marked the official opening of Stirling's new ultra-modern branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Local citizens joined with staff members of key bank officials to witness the symbolic opening with Reeve Robert Anderson wielding a pair of specially-engraved scissors.

Reeve Anderson extended congratulations to the bank on the opening of a "beautiful building" which he described as "a credit to the community."

John Kelleher, Toronto, regional vice-president of the bank, welcomed everyone to the event which he said was "the happiest occasion in our 60 years in Stirling."

He said it was an indication of the confidence the bank has in this community that such a distinctive design was chosen for the new branch here. He said he hoped the public would find the new building "functional and pleasing" and more pleasant for both customers and staff.

Mr. Kelleher spoke highly of the calibre of the staff of Stirling bank over the years, noting a "remarkably low turnover" in staff members.

Congratulations were extended by Mr. Kelleher to the architects, Watson and Wiegand of Belleville, for a "first class design" and to Wieger de Jong, Stirling, the general contractor, for "interpreting the blueprints extremely well."

Other dignitaries on hand for the ceremony included Arthur Loucks, president of the Stirling Chamber of Commerce, K. G. MacLuckie, Peterborough, the bank's district manager; and Dwight Dillabough, local manager.

An estimated 850 people responded to the bank's invitation to attend Open House at the new eight-sided building on Friday afternoon and evening. Refreshments for all were provided by members of the Rebekahs - chosen because the group represents a cross-section of the community.

With the ceremonies completed on Friday, Saturday was moving day from the old bank to the new premises. An OPP officer, security men and specialized moving equipment were on hand early to see the move carried out.

With the exception of stationery supplies and some old records, which will be moved this coming Saturday, everything was transferred to the new headquarters.

The new bank opened its door to the public Monday morning and Mr. Dillabough reported that business was carried on without a hitch.

The safe used in the old bank was donated to the Masonic Lodge. It was moved on Saturday.

The clock on the front of the old building has been donated to the local recreation committee and will find its way inside the Stirling arena.

And the special scissors provided for the ribbon-cutting were presented to the reeve as a keepsake "to be placed in his own archives."

SIGNING THE GUEST BOOK

SECURITY TO THE FORE

Security was the keyword as valuables were transferred from the old to the new Bank of Montreal in Stirling last Saturday. A Brinks man has a firearm at the ready and an OPP officer keeps his eye on the situation as a Brinks truck moves between the two buildings.

NO PAPER JULY 28

In keeping with the practice of former years, there will be no publication of the Stirling News-Argus during the week of July 28. We are suspending publication for this one week only in order to give our staff a summer vacation.

The News - Argus office will close on Wednesday, July 21 at 5 p.m., and reopen on Thursday morning, July 29.

The first issue following vacation will appear on Thursday, August 5, delayed one day on account of the Civic Monday holiday on Aug. 2nd.

Next week's edition will appear as usual.

Nursery school fees set

A co-operative nursery school for children three to five years old is planned to begin this fall in Stirling.

It will be a non-profit community organization to be held in St. Paul's United Church for three half days per week.

It is hoped that parents of pre-school children will participate in helping to organize this program.

Anyone with such articles as used toys, children's books, blocks, dolls, they would be willing to donate is asked to leave these in the box provided at the Stirling Public Library.

The proposed fee would be $12 or $15 per month. The $12 fee would apply to children whose parents would assist in any way. Each mother would probably be expected to assist the teacher for one half day per month.

Parents unable to help out would be required to pay the $15 fee. In addition, there would be a $5 registration fee.

August 15th has been suggested as the closing date for registration and the class will be limited to 20 children.

Anyone interested is asked to contact Mrs. H. Wall (395-3219) during July or Mrs. C. E. Staples (395-3374) during August.

Planning board appointments

At last week's meeting of Stirling village council, the following appointments were made to the Stirling Planning Board:

Harold Baker and James Wright, for three years; Maurice Faulkner, for two years; and Robert Hulin, one year.

The terms of R. K. West and H. E. Cooke do not expire until the end of 1971.

Reeve Robert Anderson is an ex-officio member of the board.

Hole in one

In its fifth year of operation, the Oak Hills Golf Club registered its first witnessed hole in one.

The lucky golfer was Dave Garland of Belleville who clicked on a 130-yard drive to the 6th Hole in regular play Thursday.

Mount Pleasant SS centennial

(by Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

On Sunday, July 11, almost 200 people were in attendance for the Centennial Anniversary service of Mount Pleasant Sunday School.

Flowers, in abundance, were used for decoration with the centennial cake in a prominent place at the front of the edifice. Memorial flowers were donated by Percy and Florence MacMullen in memory of her grandparents and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wescott and their daughter Bertha Wescott Montgomery.

Guests were in attendance from Ottawa, Lakefield, Moira, Warkworth, Oshawa, Marmora, Camnbray, Barrie, Scarborough, and the Stirling area. Many were former residents and came home for the reunion.

The guests were welcomed at the door by Glenn Hubel, Howard Jeffs and his wife, Corie and Mrs. Herbert Smith.

Ross Hoard was in charge of the guest book. The prelude and postlude music was provided by Mrs. Mac Sharp, organ; Harvey Couch, harmonica; Kenneth Couch, accordion and Don Campbell, banjo.

They chose several well known hymns which all enjoyed.

All of the junior members of the Sunday School were seated in the choir loft during the processional.

The Sunday School superintendent, Howard Jeffs gave the special welcome and all sang, When Mothers of Salem. During the service the kindergarten group sang, Jesus Knocks at the Door of Your Heart and I Have Little Eyes.

The junior choir sang Skies of the Summer and the whole Sunday School sang, Brighten the Corner Where You Are.

Mrs. Robert H. Hoard was the director with Miss Jeannette Hoard as piano accompanist.

Rev. W. C. Cox gave the announcements. The Bible lessons and prayers were given by Bonnie Williams and Lorraine Jeffs.

A skit, "Why bother to go to church was given by Mrs. H. Smith and Glen Merrick.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gave a message using the title, "A Look into the Life of Mount Pleasant Sunday School.

It is thought that a Sunday School was established soon after or before the church was built in 1871. It is a known fact that Samuel Wescott was the first superintendent. He lived on what is now known as the summer property. His picture was displayed, in a letter received at the time of the 60th anniversary, an unknown writer recalls Joseph Brenton as superintendent. In more recent years the superintendents have been George Alexander Johnson, Frank Williams, Reuben Hoard, George Weaver, James Sharp, Ross Hoard, Lindsay McKeown, Eric Summers, Robert Merrick, Robert H. Hoard and Howard Jeffs.

Throughout the years there have been many assistants. One of the writers of that early time says they spent the Sunday School hour listening to stories from the Bible and memorizing the verses.

Hees coming next week

The following statement was issued yesterday by George Hees, MP for Prince Edward-Hastings:

"Now that Parliament has recessed for the summer months, I have started once again the visits to all parts of the riding which I have been making each year since I became the member for Prince Edward - Hastings three years ago.

"I am looking forward very much to talking to a great many of the people who live in the area, and learning from them their views on the many subjects which are important to the country and to our riding.

"I will also be looking forward to hearing from them the ways they believe I could be helpful to them in any problems they are faced with and to doing everything I possibly can to help them solve their problems."

The local MP began this practise of visiting all parts of his riding during Parliamentary recesses, three days after he was elected to office.

Mr. Hees said he would be in Stirling on Tuesday, July 20.

Work will resume on apartment project

Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings, has announced that clearance has been given by the provincial and federal governments for the resumption of construction of Stirling's first 12 senior citizens apartments on Church St.

Mr. Rollins drove to Stirling last Thursday, fulfilling a promise made to the village council that he would have an explanation for the delay in the Ontario Housing Corporation project.

Mr. Rollins explained that although final working drawings were received from the contractor, Jack Law of Peterborough, last November, it was only on June 4 of this year that the project received the approval of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation - the federal agency which is putting up 90 per cent of the finances for the complex.

CLARKE T. ROLLINS

Mr. Law was to complete contract negotiations with the OHC early this week, with construction to resume shortly. The contractor apparently was premature in starting the work last fall, when excavating took place and water and sewer lines were laid to the site.

Another minor hitch occurred when Mr. Law changed the name of his firm this year. The change was approved by the board of directors of OHC only last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Housing Corporation has approved Stirling's application for an additional 12 units on the same Church St. site. D. J. Beesley, OHC's divisional director of development, told Mr. Rollins it is hoped to call proposals for these units within the next six weeks, and to commence construction either late this fall or in the spring of 1972.

Approval of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will have to again be sought, before construction can begin on this second phase of the development.

Rotary street fair successful

Elwood Bateman, president of the Stirling Rotary Club, said yesterday he was delighted with the number of village and area residents who turned out for the annual street fair held on Mill St. Monday evening.

Although no figures were available at press time, Mr. Bateman said indications were that the event was a financial success. The proceeds will go toward the Rotary Club's Crippled Children's work and other benevolent activities.

Private R. Huntley of CFB Trenton, holding Ticket No. 1273, was the winner of $100 in a draw conducted near the close of the evening. Second prize of $50 was won by Mrs. M. Stockton, R.R. 4, Stirling, holder of Ticket No. 1098.

The third prize winner of $25 was Mrs. Leonard White, R.R. 5 Stirling, holding Ticket No. 389.

A highlight of the fair was the "Dunking Pond" where, for a small fee, patrons had the opportunity to try and drop their reeve into a large tub of water. On the receiving end of this treatment were, among others, Reeves Robert Anderson of Stirling, Jack Bush of Sidney, Ray Shortt of Rawdon and Russell Sills of Huntingdon.

Music for dancing was provided by Truckload of Music by John DeVries and the boys from Belleville and Trenton.

A wide variety of games, including bingo, a fish pond and a wheel of fortune, did a thriving business.

Several Rotary Anns assisted Rotarians in operating games.

Exchange program

Two Stirling area farm families are playing host to city boys as part of the Urban-Rural Exchange program sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

Norman Black of Toronto is getting a taste of rural life at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman, R.R. 5 Stirling while William Hossack of Belleville has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. John Talsma, R. R. 3, Stirling.

WAITING FOR A LETDOWN

Stirling Reeve Robert Anderson prepares himself for for a watery letdown, part of the hijinks at the Rotary street fair on Mill St. Monday night. The trick was to throw a ball, hitting a disc suspended from a cable which triggered the release of the reeve's seat, dropping him into a tank of water.

DOWN HE GOES!!

Somebody hit the bullseye, dumping the reeve into the drink. The process was repeated over and over with the reeves of Rawdon, Sidney and Huntingdon, as well as others, taking the 'wet' seat. Photos by Roy Lewis

King's Mill property clean up

The property around King's Mill northwest of Stirling, and other areas under the jurisdiction of Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority have taken on a new appearance in the last few weeks. Several area students have been working to clear and improve these sites as part of the Ontario Government's program S.W.E.E.P.

At the King's Mill site eight young men have been clearing brush, cutting trees, and in general improving the appearance of the property.

They are composed of high school and university students who applied for S.W.E.E.P. (students working in an Environmental Enhancement Program).

The program tries to have students work at a clean up program in the same area in which they live. Those who worked at the King's Mill area and who will be doing other work in the Lower Trent Conservation Authority come from Campbellford, Trenton, Colborne and the Stirling area.

Besides using saws and sickles the group has been provided with two trucks from a motor company in which they can haul brush and trees to a dumping site.

The students will also be clearing bush and removing trash along roadsides.

They are now working on clearing bush from a strip of land along the east bank of the Trent River between Glen Miller and Highway 401.

From there they will go to Proctor Park in Brighton and carry on with general clean up operations there.

Those involved in the S.W.E.E.P. areas of the Lower Trent Conservation Authority Region are Dave McBride, foreman, Allan Cooke, James Conner, Tim Cassidy, Robert Colling, Jack Sills, Dave VanLuven and Paul Vandervoort.

The clean up project will continue until the end of August.

CLEARING BRUSH AT KING'S MILL

These students, members of the government's S.W.E.E.P. program, were at King's Mill last week where they cleared brush and trees from the area. King's Mill, northwest of Stirling, has been purchased by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority. The authority has been working closely with the S.W.E.E.P. program to improve various conservation areas in this region. MOUNT PLEASANT S.S. CENTENNIAL

Later there were lesson leaflets and then graded lessons and lastly books for a three year cycle.

The attendance records for the year showed a steady increase and then a downward trend, and it was the same with the finances.

In 1937 when the drought was at its worst, Mount Pleasant Sunday School donated $5.00 to buy clothing. The committee bought more at that time than could be purchased for $25.00 today.

A full report of the plans for a lawn social held on June 21, 1932 was read. Adults were charged 25¢ with free lunch and children 10¢. Various people were given specific jobs to carry on this event.

One of the teachers of by-gone days was Aunt Jane Fox, who was revered by a host of people who wrote messages for the 60th anniversary.

Scores of folk have contributed their talents as Sunday School teachers and also in training the children to sing, during the 100 years that have elapsed. In closing a plea was made to give the children good wholesome training at Sunday School and thus have them learn the Golden Rule of Life.

Mrs. James Sharp, who was a Sunday School teacher for many years and who has reached her 91st milestone, gave a short message telling of many past memories in the life of Mount Pleasant Sunday School. She stressed the need of Bible study and prayer in order to live according to God's laws. She also outlined the value of Christian customs and the necessity of observing the Lord's Day. In closing she quoted a message stating that the broadcast of sermons brings extracts from the Bible which explain experiences and events in everyday life and which our most helpful in this day and age.

The offering was gathered by Ian Hubel, Grant Dunham, Kenneth Sharp and Donald Hubel and dedicated by Glenn Hubel. The service closed with the hymn, Holy Spirit Hear Us and prayer.

Later, on the church lawn, the group enjoyed a social half hour and the committee served ice cream to all.

During the summer, 900 students from other Canadian provinces will visit Ontario.

An open letter

To The Editor:

The area is Chula Vista, the date is May 6th, and the time is afternoon. A white bus pulls up on South Western's Campus and unloads several youth who call themselves "Children of God", their mission - to convince youth that their way is the right way, which includes the selling of all earthly possessions, following them as captives, held and taken somewhere in Los Angeles, taught UN-CHRISTIAN DOCTRINES, guarded at all times, with fearfulness shaking their bodies, no sleep, no food, and ignorant that Christ's Mission was to save mankind from sin. After L.A., they are bused to Arizona, taught in a hypnotical state, kept away from the sunlight, and filled with wickedness. These people pounce upon weak Christians, and pull them into an hypnotic state with their wicked eyes. These people are the "wicked forces of Satan" that produce fear, hate, greed and lust."

The adults taken from our campus have not been returned. Parents are concerned and broken hearted.

To all readers, PLEASE be on your Guard. Have the guts to say, "With the blood of Jesus Christ and in His Name, Be gone ye follower of Satan." They will stare at the ground in shame. "Let no man deceive you children, for the Son of God appeared for this reason, to destroy the Devil's works." Jn. 3: 7, 8.

PLEASE GET THE WORD AROUND, OR EITHER YOU OR YOUR FRIENDS' LIVES MAY BE IN SERIOUS SPIRITUAL DANGER.

What are his views on loans?

At the Bank of Montreal, we consider every loan application on its individual merits. We want you to get your money's worth.

Dick Filliter:

"Last year, I met a businessman on a local golf course and he asked me about a loan for a car. But, when he came to see me, he'd changed his mind. He wanted a boat instead. So I arranged a combined loan and savings plan for him. Now he owns both a new car and a sailboat. The money was within his grasp — he just didn't know how to organize it."

Weekly Meditation

CONTRIBUTED BY STIRLING CLERGYMEN

BY REV. CHARLES STAPLES
ST. JOHN'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

In the Spring, when the winter's snow run-off, makes the rivers flood, we hear of children being pulled out of the rushing waters by someone who happens along. The action of such people is the kind of commitment toward other areas of life each of us could well have all the time, all year round. In order to save a child from drowning you must feel something extremely important and critical is at stake; so absolutely important overruling thoughts about one's own safety.

It is this kind of commitment in life which for the most part we are losing. People in need are being ignored. The willingness to go out of ones way to help is less evident. Life can become more and more impersonal and pointless. The more we try to exclude from life things affecting others, the less disruptive life will be, but also the less colourful and meaningful. Some people are bound and bent that they're not going to do anything until the question is answered, "What am I going to get out of this?"

The striking contrast between the flat and dull life where there is no commitment except to one's own self, and the exilierating and vibrant life where commitment is given beyond self, is something like the story of Mary Magdelene in the garden at the time of Jesus' resurrection.

Do you recall when she entered the garden and saw Jesus, she mistook him for the gardener. At that moment her commitment was not extending to anyone but to her own grief. Consequently, what she saw was a person who was flat, impersonal, an unidentified gardener. But when Mary heard a warm friendly sound, the voice of Jesus saying, "Mary", her own name, then Jesus comes alive. Her faith is immediately awakened and she declared, "My Lord and my God."

Its that kind of lively commitment which we can have if we were to let our commitment reach out beyond our own concerns and selfish limitations. Come alive. Reach out to others - Reach out to Christ.

Witnesses plan convention

"What you do with waste shows whether you respect other people, their property, or even yourself. You also show your attitude toward the Creator and His creation."

These were among some of the remarks directed to the local congregation of Jehovah's witnesses this week by their overseer, Walton Lidster. He was discussing arrangements for travel to their "Divine Name" district assembly at Montreal, July 14 - 18.

In drawing the audience's attention to the Bible text at Revelation 11:18 where it states that 'God will bring to ruin those ruining the earth', he, in this way, tied in the importance of the main address at the up-coming convention entitled, "When All Nations Collide, Head On, With God."

"Remember," he said, "the earth belongs to its Creator, Jehovah God, and if we expect to survive the forthcoming collision with earth's owner we must respect what belongs to Him even now! This means that as we travel along the highways, stop in parks, and meet with our Christian brothers, we will be conscious of the divine obligation to cooperate with Him in keeping everything clean."

When 16,000 delegates meet for five days at Montreal's Blue Bonnets Raceway, they will sit in stands scrubbed down in advance by their Montreal brothers. Adults and children alike will observe "trash boys" signs. "And when they leave," Mr. Lidster said, "we want Montrealers to be able to say the same thing about us as was reported in the New York Daily News about our convention in that city some years ago: 'Whatever New Yorkers may think of the Witnesses' theology, ... their cleanliness is now almost legendary ... When they leave on Sunday night, the ball park will be spotless.'

Garrod - Williams

Bridge Street United Church was the scene of the recent wedding ceremony, when Nancy Elizabeth Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Williams, Oak Hills, Stirling was united in marriage to Howard Robert Garrod of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Garrod of Ottawa. Rev. Dr. Lloyd Shorten of Toronto officiated and wedding music was rendered by S. Alec Gordon who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Ann Colebourne in appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor length gown in slightly A-line style of imported lagoda. The empire style bodice featured a high scoop neckline and wrist length sleeves which were outlined with French lace. The skirt was highlighted with set-in appliques of lace with a wide edging of the same lace around the hemline. A full length cathedral train also outlined with lace accented the back of the gown. A four-tier bouffant elbow length veil was held in place by a headdress of matching lace embedded with tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and Woburn Abbey roses interwoven with ivy and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Stewart Reed of Burlington, sister of the bride who wore a floor-length gown of flowered nylon sheer organza in predominant shades of yellow and peach. The gown featured a high neckline with a Peter Pan collar and full sleeves gathered at the wrist. She wore a bow headdress of matching corde ribbon and carried a basket filled with white shasta daisies and yellow and Woburn Abbey roses intermingled with baby's breath and accented with streamers of matching yellow ribbon.

Bridesmaids Miss Judith Walker of Belleville, Mrs. Glenn Avery of Stouffville and Miss Vicki MacInnis of Toronto were attired identically to the matron of honor, as was the flower girl Miss Jacqueline Haynes of Cobourg, cousin of the bridegroom. All carried similar baskets of flowers.

Roger Garrod of Ottawa as groomsman attended his brother, while the ushers were Stewart Reed of Burlington, brother-in-law of the bride, Glenn Avery of Stouffville and Jack Marretta of Richmond Hill, Ring bearer was Richard Haynes of Cobourg, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the Fiesta Room at Hotel Quinte, where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a seafoam green georgette gown with a full length sleeveless coat of matchin material in shirred design. In her hair she wore a headpiece of roses to match her ensemble which was also complemented with a yellow cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a gown of figured silk sheer in shades of blue with a headpiece of white taffeta petals and veiling. Blue accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids completed her attire.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina via Boston and Cape Cod, the bride donned an ensemble consisting of flowered dress of sculptured pure silk in shades of rose with a full length sleeveless coat in deeper shades of rose, and carried a nosegay of hot pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrod will reside at Primrose Gardens, Gamble Ave., Toronto.

PROUD SUPPLIERS OF THE DRAPES

Bank of Montreal dates back to Sovereign Bank

The original Bank of Montreal was established on July 7, 1902, as a branch of the Sovereign Bank of Canada which later became a part of the Bank of Montreal.

The bank was originally located in a two-storey building on the same site as the present Bank of Montreal office. At that time, the population of the village was only some 950. Streets were unpaved, sidewalks were wooden and the horse and buggy provided transportation.

In 1908, a disastrous fire swept through the business section, completely destroying about one-third of it, including the bank's building. Construction of new premises was started on the same site immediately after the fire, by Roy and Hector Eggleton's father, and the building has been occupied by the Bank of Montreal ever since.

Since the Bank of Montreal took over the banking office in 1908, there have only been 14 Managers at the Stirling Branch. First of these was W.R. Howson, who served from 1908 to 1910. He was followed by H.R. Boulton, from 1910 to 1912, and subsequent managers were: T.E.B. Yates, 1912-22; J.F. Johnstone, 1922-24; J.D. Mills, 1924-29; W.H. Moise, 1929-32; R.T. Dunlop, 1932-35; H.P. Ellis, 1935-38; S.L. Lucas, 1938-43; G.L. Johnstone, 1943-47; A.V. Greenley, 1947-58; I.L. Rawlings, 1958-69; D.C. Dillabough, 1969 - present.

As a matter of interest history has repeated itself twice in the last century. The reconstructed Bank of 1908 originally had a dome as our 1971 Branch does, and the site of new premises was where the Parker's Bank was previously located.

Adventure in Lake Superior area

If you think adventure is only for moon travellers it's time to get back down to earth.

Plenty of surprises remain to be explored on old terra firma and not the least of these is the great circle route around Lake Superior, measuring 1,060 exciting road miles from the Canadian Sault Ste. Marie and back to its Michigan namesake.

Cars for decades have travelled along the south shore of this, the world's largest fresh water body, and up its northwest coast to the Canadian Lakehead. But it wasn't until as late as 1960 that the first road link from east to west was punched through Ontario's rugged Algoma region to complete the long-sought circle.

Through areas of vast wilderness totally unchanged since the time French explorer Etienne Brule first saw it early in the 17th century, the Ontario portion of this magnificent journey runs for 470 miles from the Canadian Soo to Pigeon River at the Minnesota border.

Cool, clear waters reach out beyond the horizon. Near-empty beaches stretch for miles. There's roadside fishing for youngsters and wilderness eye-popping angling on short-trip flyins.

This primitive area - straight from a Jack London novel - is epic in its proportion and only by the presence of navigable waters was it likely ever discovered by man.

You'll wheel along open highway between settlements 100 miles or more apart entranced by the passing parade of Lake Superior's coastal grandeur. Moose, deer and bear loom into roadside view. The route abounds with easily plucked pieces of amethysts to xonotlite; historic fur trade, mining and lumbering sites; Indian rock paintings and untrampled forests; challenging golf courses and interesting night life.

The road meanders through muskeg and hurdles highlands, skims over table-smooth swampland and rambles through fjord-like canyons of solid granite. It is much akin to a Hollywood spectacular only all the vistas are live.

While this wilderness trip offers instant escape from urban tensions, the would-be traveller would need to give sober forethought to the prime reason for taking it -- and, that, to be sure, would be adventure.

However, it is only fair to warn that accommodations along the Ontario portion, while increasing year after year, don't always meet peak summer demands. The adventurous can follow the lead of many travellers on this journey by taking along a tent, a house trailer, or one of the modern sleeper vehicles with a boat trailer hitched behind.

But should you prefer to rest in more organized surroundings -- with outdoor fireplaces for cooking, camp tables and toilet facilities -- at least eight government-run campsites and two provincial parks are strategically located between the Soo and the Minnesota border. And you should try at least once to camp near a mining or logging town for a taste of frontier life.

Often overlooked by the wayfarer through northern Ontario are the tucked-away outfitters' camps found usually just off the beaten path. These offer commodious lodging, some with trailer sites right on the water.

From the Soo travellers haven't long to wait before entering totally virgin territory. These are the wilds of storied Algoma where engineers needed four years and $40 million to close the final gap in the Ontario section of the Trans-Canada highway which made the circle route possible.

The 165-mile stretch through forest and over stream and across muskeg and mountain from Agawa to Marathon, necessitated the clearing of 1,720 acres of bushland and the erection of 25 bridges -- the longest span nearly 600 feet.

Several small communities offering hotels, motels, outfitters' camps and cottages dot the route from the Soo for 140 miles to Wawa, a "gold rush" boom town in 1898 but with a more romantic past in fur trading. "Wawa" is the Ojibway Indian word for wild goose, so named for the teeming thousands of these game birds which rest here spring and fall in migration. A mammoth model of the Canada goose in metal welcomes visitors to this former outpost now bristling with fine motels.

From there the Superior Road to Adventure plunges deeper into the northern interior past hundreds of giant hills of near-mountain magnitude to White River, a town that takes curious pride in recording the lowest temperatures on this continent in winter.

More wild and wooly country, through White River Provincial Park, and it's back to the Lake Superior shoreline and relative civilization again. You'll pass through the busy pulpwood towns of Marathon and Terrace Bay, through Schreiber and Rossport to Nipigon, a 17th century fur trading post now dependent on the forest for its living.

There are more mining and lumbering towns en route to the Lakehead city of Thunder Bay (formerly the twin cities of Fort William and Port Arthur), some with promising futures, others with only memories of more prosperous times.

Thunder Bay is the last major Canadian shopping center on the trip before heading for the U.S. border. It is Canada's third largest seaport and the home of 100,000 robust people. Worth visiting there is Centennial Park with its children's animal farm and logging camp (circa 1909) which serves hearty lumberjack meals. The city also has an outstanding botanical conservatory, a waterfront carnival center at Chippewa Park and a summer ice skating rink.

Highway 17 (the Trans-Canada) offers an enjoyable side trip 18 miles west to roaring Kakabeka Falls, the "Niagara of the North" with an interesting Indian legend. It's 50 miles from Thunder Bay to Pigeon River at the border, a cool, 155-mile coastal drive to Duluth and another 425 miles through Wisconsin and Michigan to the U.S. Soo.

And, when you arrive back at your starting point, you will have circumnavigated the 31,820 square miles of Superior -- all in all, a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see nature in the raw before the inevitable encroachment by civilization robs it of its frontier flavor.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Other People's Problems

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My wife, age 49, has been working for the last ten years and I'm all for it. Apart from financial considerations, having a job gives her pride in her appearance, it also enables here to participate in competitive situations and to have conversations on an adult level. The only catch is: she's always bringing home the emotional problems of her co-workers. These include adultery and infidelity in their many forms, as well as assorted other marriage and work problems. My wife is a sweet, loving person whose greatest fault is that she thinks with her heart, never with her head. As a result, she gets too deeply involved in everyone else's trials and tribulations. I sure wish she'd leave then at the office. How can I make her quit bringing them home?

P.L., Baltimore, Md.

Dear P. L.

Why not tell your wife you'd be happy to listen to any and all problems affecting her personally, but that you draw the line there. You might even add that if others at work have problems - and if those problems involve mature women - they can always write to Margaret Brookfield at 3 West 57 Street, New York City 10019. After all, that's what she's there for.

Over 40 And Curious

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I keep hearing about the advantages of estrogen for women in their 40's. I'm 47 myself and starting to go into menopause. What I'm curious about is whether there's some way to get estrogen other than by a doctor's prescription - such as in vitamins or food?

M.G., New Castle, Wyo.

dear M. G.:

Estrogen, which usually comes in tablet form, requires a doctor's prescription. This way the physician can determine each woman's needs on an individual medical basis. And that, of course, is the way it should be.

Disappointing Marriage

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I am now 55. Three years ago, I married for a second time and now find myself depressed and lonely. My husband and I got along so well when we first met. Recently however, there's been no communication between us. I feel the marriage was a mistake. Yet, whenever I want to leave him, it seems I'm always getting sick. When I go away for a few days, however, I feel fine. You may think I'm foolish, but these are the things I feel and they upset me physically and emotionally. Please advise.

H. K., Chicago, Ill.

Dear H.K.:

If a woman doesn't know her own mind by the time she's 55, she may never know it. But it's not easy either to consider another change at your age. Before making any decision, however, why not think through some of the reasons you were so compatible before marriage and what might have happened subsequently. Were your expectations too high? Did you misread his character? Also is there anything you might do personally to restore your earlier compatability and improve your marriage? If there isn't, perhaps you'd better have a serious talk with your husband about your future and his.

Rylstone WI

Rylstone Women's Institute held their annual Girl's meeting in the Institute Hall on Wednesday, July 9, when the 4H Club girls supplied the program.

There was an attendance of 16 ladies, three girls and two children.

At the executive table, were Mrs. Jack Watson, president; and Mrs. Paul McKeown, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Watson conducted the business and introductory part of the meeting which included the Institute Ode and Creed. The roll call was, The First Club I belonged to, or led. Mrs. McKeown read the minutes of the June meeting and correspondance which included thankyou notes from Mrs. Percy Reid and Mrs. Margaret Osborne.

There was discussion and decision on sponsoring a girl's club for the coming year. Leaders have not been definately chosen as yet. There was also some discussion on catering for a booth at Campbellford Fair on July 31 and catering for a community sale at Hoards Station sale barns in February.

Mrs. Carl Reid gave a report of the North Hastings District Annual Meeting held in Spring Brook United Church earlier.

Mrs. Charles Stewart presented Mrs. E. Lindsay Anderson with a footed, crystal, rose bowl in corn flower pattern, in appreciation of her years of service as president. Mrs. Anderson replied with words of thanks.

Mrs. Watson called on Mrs. Alice Brunton, Girl's Club leader, to convene the girl's program. There was a small attendance of girls, but those present carried out the short program admirably.

Elaine Brunton gave the "Story of the Club", Lois Reid and Elaine gave a demonstration of their project, The Cereal Shelf.

Lois gave the commentary while Elaine pointed out the cereal components on their display.

Lois played a piano solo entitled, There's More To Life, and Mrs. Ernest Irwin commended the girls and their fellow members on their years work and their part in the program, wishing them well on their coming projects this season.

A singing contest to My Bonnie Lies Over The Ocean, was led by Mrs. Alice Brunton at the piano.

Refreshments of fruit breads, cheese and pickles was served with tea and soft drinks, by the hostesses, Mrs. Eldon Anderson, Mrs. Gerald Barnum and Mrs. Ellis Jones.

The August meeting will be held at night when Wilfred Spencer will show pictures of his recent trip to the Carribean.

AUDITOR'S REPORT
TOWNSHIP OF RAWDON

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of Rawdon.

We have examined the 1970 financial statements of the Corporation of the Township of Rawdon. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of Rawdon as at December 31, 1970, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Senior Citizens keeping cool

Last Thursday was a hot day but in the club room of Senior Citizens it was nice and cool. About forty enjoyed the games and also the nice lunch served by Margaret Ward, Elizabeth Foster, Jessie Johnson and Annie Faulkner. Our president, Fred Heasman is off to the Old Country and vice president, Margaret Fitchett, took care of his duties.

There will be no regular meeting on July 15 because of the picnic at Cobourg the previous day. We are all invited to River Valley on July 18 to help Percy MacMullen over the 80 year hump. Looks like he may have a good chance of hitting the 90 year hump too. The Club extend their best wishes to you Percy.

We Senior Citizens are very proud of our new Bank of Montreal. We also think its manager Dwight Dillabough and his Staff are tops. Now that's saying a lot for over the years we've had some dandies.

After a noisy argument, a wife snapped at her husband, "Did you hear my last remark?" "I certainly hope so," he sighed.

Aviation hall grounded

TRENTON - Air Marshal C. R. Dunlap, chairman of the board of directors of the proposed $3.6 million RCAF Memorial and Hall of Canadian Aviation History, announced last week the Trenton project has been scraped.

"Economic conditions prevented many corporations and individuals from contributing and as far as the public is concerned, it did not appear there was sufficient dedication to generate the necessary financing," he said.

Decision to give up the original plan was made at a meeting of the memorial's board of directors June 29. A thorough evaluation of alternatives is now contemplated.

"We will be looking at less ambitious projects that are more within our range," Major Dave Tinson, the memorial's public relations officer, stated in an interview this morning.

He said directors will begin looking at options shortly and the process may last several months.

"We cannot achieve Plan A, so now we will be looking for a Plan B ....We are almost into a new program," the Ottawa-based public relations man added. Price range for the alternative is expected to be between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

In the past three and a half years, only $660,000 of the $3.6 million needed to construct the gigantic pyramid structure just west of CFB Trenton has been either donated or pledged. Of the total, $300,000 was given over to the building fund in cash, with the remainder consisting of pledges.

Select planning staff

Selection of staff for the six-month-old Quinte Area Planning Board has been of utmost concern for board members who last week appointed Bert Kenny as their first planning director.

Planning director of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board since Oct. 1968, Mr. Kenny was selected from a total of nine applicants.

His present salary has been adopted but Belleville Ald. E. A. Orr, chairman of the personnel committee, said reviews of all wages for employees would be made by Jan., 1972.

21 YEARS WITH ELAINE FOOTWEAR

Mrs. Pearl McGee of 21 Henry St., was honored at a retirement party at Elaine Footwear last Friday. Mrs. McGee worked for the company for the past 21 years. She started with the company when it began production, originally in Frankford. She was presented with a gift on behalf of the company by John Svoboda, president of the firm.

Mrs. McGee also received a box of 21 roses, representing the 21 years she had been with the company, and a suitcase from her fellow employees.

Variety of items on council agenda

A brief meeting was held by Stirling village council on Monday night, the last regular session until Sept. 1.

All members were present, with the exception of Councillor Douglas Bensley.

Council agreed to suspend meetings during August. The municipal office will be closed from Aug. 2 until 21, when Clerk W.L. Pollock will be on vacation.

Council proclaimed Monday, August 2, a Civic Holiday in Stirling.

A request from Stirling Legion, that the village pick up garbage from the Legion hall, located just to the north of the village limits, was granted. Council agreed to provide garbage pickup service to the hall for the remainder of 1971, at a cost of 50 cents per week -- the same basis on which the village recently agreed to take away garbage from a Rawdon township residence in the Legion hall area.

The village agreed to renew its lease with the federal government, for the use of the council chamber by the Division Court. Under the terms of the lease, the village will receive $150 per year in rent.

A grant of $200 was authorized to be paid to the Stirling Agricultural Society which sponsors the annual Stirling Fall Fair. The 1971 grant is up from the usual donation of $125.

The clerk was asked to get in touch with the townships of Sidney and Thurlow in connection with a proposed anti-littering bylaw for the village of Stirling.

Reeve Robert Anderson expressed the view that Stirling must proceed quickly to pass anti-littering legislation, in view of the fact the municipal dump is now out of bounds to the public except at certain authorized times, and is scheduled to be closed permanently when the village begins to use a proposed new site east of Frankford.

The reeve suggested that anti-littering bylaws passed by Sidney and Thurlow might be used as patterns for Stirling to follow.

Members of council said they had no objections to a Community Nursery School which is scheduled to begin in St. Paul's United Church this fall.

Tack Shop is sold

Ted's Tack Shop, a small industry in Stirling, has been sold to a former Stirling man who operates Carrying Industries Ltd., at Carrying Place, south of Trenton.

It was announced yesterday that the Cairns family had sold the Tack Shop to Roy Beith. The sale took effect on Monday.

William Cairns said the business will continue to operate under the same name.

The Tack Shop is expected to take over some lines now handled at Carrying Industries, which produces safety equipment, while some lines of the Stirling plant may be transferred to Carrying Place, he said.

Until recently, the Tack Shop employed eight persons. They were laid off when the previous owners decided to deplete the amount of goods on hand. All eight are to be called back to work, said Mr. Cairns.

Spencer picnic reunion held

About 75 descendants of the late John Spencer and Ann Schofield met at the Lions Club Picnic Grounds at Campbellford on Sunday, July 18 for their annual get-together.

The weather was fair, though cool, and the family enjoyed their reunion in the beautiful and spacious grounds.

After the picnic meal was over, Wilfred Spencer, president, called all to order for a short business period. Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, secretary, read an account of the 1970 picnic, at the same location. A moment's silence was observed in honor of three family members who died during the past year.

In the election of officers, Wilfred Spencer was re-elected as president, Granville Rutherford of Havelock as vice-president, and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer as secretary-treasurer. Sports and Program Committee will be handled by the distaff side this year, as Mrs. Doug Dooher, Campbellford, and her sister, Mrs. Gary Lounsbury of Peterborough were elected.

Bob Spencer and Doug Dooher conducted races and games for the children. The rest of the afternoon was spent in swimming and visiting, to the strains of the bagpipes, played by the family piper, Bob Spencer.

Family members were present from Toronto, Colborne, Napanee, Stirling, River Valley, Campbellford, Havelock, Peterborough, Orono and Rylstone.

The 1972 Reunion will be held at the same place, Campbellford Lions Club Park, on the third Sunday in July.

Hees pays visit to Stirling

George Hees, MP for Prince Edward - Hastings, was in Stirling on Tuesday, as he continued his annual visit to all parts of the riding.

Before and after a noon dinner with party stalwarts at Hum's Restaurant, he spent a considerable amount of time talking with local citizens on the street and in places of business.

Mr. Hees has made a practice of visiting all parts of his riding between sessions of Parliament.

He made it known he plans to be present for Stirling Fall Fair on Sept. 4.

Woman finds old quarter

A Front St. woman made an interesting find Monday morning while digging in a flower bed.

Mrs. Bert Anderson discovered a slightly bent 25-cent piece, bearing the picture of Queen Victoria. The date appeared to be 1872.

A dent in the old coin indicated that it had been struck by a sharp object.

Another exchange trio arrives

The third group of young people to participate in the Urban-Rural Exchange are arriving this week.

Three exchangees will be staying in the Stirling area during the week of July 20 to 27.

They are: Yves Lalonde, Kingston, staying with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sharp and family, R.R. 3, Stirling;

OFA makes proposal

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture proposed a plan to relieve cheese plants of some of the pressure due to apparent shortages of industrial milk.

At a Toronto hearing on Friday, July 16, conducted by the Milk Commission of Ontario, OFA executive director and dairyman, Delmer Bennett recommended that milk for cheddar cheese, sold over the counter to consumers be exempt from quotas.

The quotas for cheese plants permit fair distribution of milk left after the prime markets fluid milk, ice cream and speciality cheeses have been satisfied.

Bennett told Milk Commission chairman, Dr. Kenneth McEwen, that many small cheese plants may have to close because of the shortage of milk.

Overall milk production this year is down 3.3 per cent from last year, while the milk supply to cheese plants is down considerably more - by 13 per cent.

"Small cheese plants such as Plum Hollow and Forfar and Union Star are having a tough time of it right now," Mr. Bennett said. "Some of them just aren't getting enough milk to continue profitable operation."

"The Milk Commission should exempt over-the-counter sales of these plants from quota restrictions. Some plants sell as much as half their cheese directly over the counter and its exemption from quota would make a considerable difference in many cases."

Mr. Bennett called on milk processors to increase prices to producers. "If processors find present supplies inadequate," he said, "the surest and quickest way to increase supplies is by immediately paying producers more for their product."

Several processors at the hearing were apparently willing to pay more for milk.

Report outlines possibilities for development of waterway

The goal of the Rideau-Trent-Severn Waterway is to develop a distinctive environmental corridor wherein a wide variety of recreational opportunities are available to users in a safe, pleasant and interesting environment and where optimum recreation use is achieved.

In these words the report of the Canada - Ontario Rideau-Trent-Severn Study Committee sets out their target after four years of study of the problems and potentials of the 425-mile waterway through central and eastern Ontario.

Optimum use is where the greatest number of people use an area and are satisfied with it, yet where no significant environmental damage occurs, the report says.

At the public hearings, the committee heard tourists, cottagers and boaters call for a broad range of facilities along the waterway corridor. More launching ramps and picnic areas at points of interest were requested as well as more overnight dockage at communities along the waterway and better public washrooms.

The report calls for a variety of public areas or facilities within the waterway corridor, including:

Campgrounds, tent and trailer.

Picnic sites, beaches and day-use areas including municipal parks or parkways.

Access points to water, boat launching sites, etc.

Scenic roads.

Scenic boat routes and docks.

Canoe routes.

Walking, cycling, riding, snowmobile and ski trails.

Youth hostels.

Certain of these facilities, such as campgrounds and picnic sites, are found in large parks and day-use areas, the report points out. Other, such as canoe routes and walking trails, may occur both within parks and outside of them.

Precise standards for public facility development have not been established, it adds. Generally, however, for each of the 27 segments of the waterway there should be at least one major extended use park, at least one large picnic site and at least one public boat launching facility.

It adds that parks in the corridor should, where possible, be specifically water oriented.

There is not only a need for, but every prospect of public acceptance of a greater degree of uniformity in user charges than has hitherto prevailed among the various jurisdictions, the report says. Moreover such charges should bring the taxpayer investor a return not unrelated to the extent of public investment.

Where private development is desirable, the latter should not be made uneconomic by subsidization of public development, it adds.

Possibility of increased and expanded cruise ship operations on the Rideau-Trent-Severn Waterway, with trips of two-day to two week duration, is suggested in the report.

Cruise ship potentials should be brought to the attention of private investors, the report recommends.

"Loans and subsidies for the purchase or construction of a vessel for this purpose may be available from public agencies," it says.

Daytime cruise ships now operate on the waterway at Ottawa and Peterbrough and offer opportunities for large numbers of people who are not boat owners to enjoy the waterway. Additional cruise ships operate on the Ottawa River and through the Thousand Islands and Thirty Thousand Island areas.

Interest in initiating cruises on the Rideau-Trent-Severn Waterway has been shown by a United States cruise ship company now operating on the Richelieu, the St. Lawrence and Saguenay Rivers in Quebec.

A similar ship operating on the Gota Canal in Sweden carries 74 passengers with sleeping and dining accommodation and liquor lounge, the committee reports. A cruise ship operating on the Red River and Lake Winnipeg is used as a convention centre during the winter.

A variety of cruises might be operated on the Rideau-Trent-Severn by vessels of this type, the report suggests, with trips from Kingston including:

To Smiths Falls and return, Ottawa and return, St. Lawrence Islands cruise, Golden Triangle cruise (Montreal, Ottawa and Kingston), Bay of Quinte cruise and to Orillia and return.

Travel on the lower part of the Severn River is currently limited by the marine railway at the Big Chute and by channel conditions, the report notes.

Bonarlaw named after British leader

These are excerpts from a history of Bonarlaw, with an introduction of Hastings County, given by Mrs. Morley Ayrhart at the last meeting of the Stirling Women's Institute held on July 7.

The county of Hastings is situated in the south central portion of the province. It is bounded by Lennox and Addington and Renfrew counties on the east, by Renfrew County and Nipissing District on the north, by Haliburton, Peterborough and Northumberland counties on the west and by the Bay of Quinte on the south.

The county has an area of 2,322 square miles and is divided into 24 townships.

In Tyendinaga township 17,604 acres have been set apart as an Indian Reserve. Thurlow township contains the city of Belleville which is also the county seat.

The county was named after Lord Rawdon, Earl of Moira and Hungerford and Marquis of Hastings, who was an outstanding soldier and statesman of the 18th century.

Although not connected with Canadian history himself, his name has also been perpetuated in the names of the township of Rawdon and Hungerford and of the Moira River.

The names of the scientists, Faraday and Herschel and of the Arctic explorer, McClure, have been similarly preserved. The township of Tyendinaga, so called from the Indian name for Chief Joseph Brant, was granted to Indian Loyalists of the Mohawk tribe at the close of the American Revolution.

RAWDON TOWNSHIP

In Rawdon there is a small place known as Bonarlaw that was not the first name.

In 1854 my grandfather bought a farm on the 13th Concession of Rawdon, the community was known then as "Big Springs". There was a tenant on this place until 1865 when my grandfather moved from Meyer's Creek to Big Springs.

Some years later the Canadian Pacific built a railroad through here, coming from a northwest direction from Toronto down through the farm and on south east to Smiths Falls. About the same time the COR put a line from the northeast direction through the east side of this farm and on down where it crosses the CPR and on in a southwest direction to Trenton.

A big station was built where the lines crossed. It was a very busy place with seven men to operate it.

The CPR wanted to build a round house here and make this the rail centre between Toronto and Smiths Falls, but the farmer who owned the land here wanted more money than the railroad was willing to pay.

So they went to Havelock and built the round house and this became the rail centre. The COR is now part of the CNR.

To the west of the tracks is the Big Springs that gave the name to the community. There is a road from the station across to what is now Highway 14.

John Bell, who had been station agent for a number of years, quit the railroad and put up a two storey brick hotel on the east side of the highway and named it, Beliview Hotel.

Then the name of the area changed from Big Springs to Beliview. To the north of the hotel Mr. Bell built a town hall. The Presbyterians, in the area, used this for their church services. Farther north on the west side of the road was the school house. Across the road from Ronald Brown's place was a hotel made of logs and owned by Johnathan Allcock, my great great uncle. This hotel was also a toll house.

The earliest records of a post office are dated "1875" when the area was Big Springs. This office was one room then Jesse Neals home where Bert McCoy lives today.

In 1894 when the hotel was built the post office was moved in there.

Tom Cook was the first man to have a store which was in the northend of the hotel. After him John Bell, then his cousin, Dan Bell, who lived in the house across the road and moved his store and post office over there on rollers with one horse.

If you wanted to go to Beliview by train you had to buy a ticket to central Ontario junction which was a bit confusing.

The post office and railroad officials thought that the area should have one name, Copact was suggest being part of COR and part CPR.

Jack Baker, who was station agent for 38 years, didn't think that the name was suitable and circulated a petition that the name be Bonarlaw, after Andrew Bonarlaw, who was born in New Brunswick and at one time served as conservative prime minister in England.

So from Big Spring To Beliview in 1894 to Bonarlaw in 1918.

In 1925 Bill Barlow went in partnership with Mr. Bell and continued until 1944 when Mr. Bell died. Mr. Barlow went on until 1965 when he sold out to Mrs. Moore. He was only there a short time when he was told this building would have to be moved or torn down in order to widen the highway.

He put up a one storey building on the east side of the highway and moved his dry goods and post office over there. In 1969 the office was closed and the mail comes from Marmora.

The water tank, station, store, house and hotel are all gone. The school is a private home.

All that is left is Mrs. Moore's small store, a few homes and the Anglican Church.

Years ago the church was on the 12th concession. A parsonage was on the highway and a full time minister. Now the minister comes from Marmora, and the parsonage was torn down.

The present church, built during the depression years, is made of local lime stone and mostly volunteer labor and a bequest from a native, Mrs. Mary Ann Cook.

St. Mark's is a model church in a small community.

Arson suspected

TWEED -- Officers of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office have not ruled out arson as a possible cause of an early Sunday morning fire which completely destroyed the 15-year-old Ontario Department of Lands and Forests Chief Ranger office and radio maintenance technical shop, one mile from the centre of this village.

All the field records, a lot of equipment," were destroyed, John Shala, Chief Forest Ranger said Monday.

The 3:22 a.m. Sunday alarm, turned in by Mrs. Doris Smith of 370 Park Avenue, brought 16 men from the Tweed Volunteer Fire Department to the estimated $23,000 blaze. Fire Chief Ross McNaught said the building was totally engulfed by flames when firemen arrived.

With flames engulfing the roof of the one-storey asbestos-siding building, nearby power lines from the village's power transformer were damaged and the village was without electric power for several hours until work crews could repair the lines.

Frankford plaza planned

FRANKFORD (Special) - Construction of a shopping plaza in Frankford moved closer to reality when council passed a bylaw at its last meeting authorizing Jack Madill Development Corporation to proceed with plans to build on parts of lots 227 and 228 within six months.

If no start has been made within that period, the property will revert to the village for the same amount as it was sold - $7,500.

The two lots in question face east on North Trent Street and are at the side of the new post office. The development company already owns land facing Mill Street, extending from the boundary of the new Legion Hall to the corner of Mill and Trent Streets.

The two remaining buildings, Madill's Variety and the Bata Shoe Store are also owned by the company. It plans to demolish these buildings, leaving a large area for development of the plaza.

Two stores on the property, Crest Hardware and Dafoe's dry goods store may have second entrances made square.

Campbellford fair queen to be chosen

All area girls 18 years of age or under as of August 1, 1971 are invited to enter the Campbellford Fair Queen Competition. The winner will be the girl winning the most prizes in the Homemaking Section of the Prize List not including specials.

The winner will be announced Friday evening, July 30 and crowned at the official opening of the fair on Saturday, July 31. The two runners-up shall be princesses to reign over the fair with the queen. Prizes, flowers and banners will be presented to the three girls.

Witnesses hold convention

"An imminent confrontation with God on the part of all nations is before us", according to Kenneth Little, supervisor of Jehovah's witnesses in Canada.

An international audience of 22,602 from 14 lands including residents from the Stirling area listened as Mr. Little outlined from the Bible the world-shaking events facing all mankind in the near future.

His remarks were made during the main address of the "Divine Name" assembly of Jehovah's witnesses in Montrealon Sunday afternoon.

"The nations do not have to see God in order to collide with him. We often run into things we cannot see. When Jehovah God put man upon the earth, he did not make him the owner of the earth, but made man only a dweller and worker upon it.

"Because all nations defy domination by God and His ways of ruling God must do away with them during the coming collision, and put the rule of the earth in the hands of righteous men under the Kingdom of His Son, Jesus Christ. This will take place at the war between God and man called in the Bible Har-Magedddon.

"Then the difference in earthly conditions will be as great as that between a refuse dump and a park of paradise beauty. The earth will look more beautiful under the Kingdom of God than it did to the astronauts who looked back with amazement at its beauty on their way to the moon", said Mr. Little.

Thousands of the delegates in attendance were teenagers along with their families obviously enjoying themselves and anxious to take in Bible knowledge. How parents and Christian overseers could protect children from a life of dissipation and disappointment was dealt with by a number of speakers.

New and more interesting methods of reading the Bible in private and family groups were demonstrated to the regular Bible reading audience. In one case it was mentioned how daily reading of the Bible alone had created a joyous and united family out of one which was about to end in shipwreck.

Many true-to-life experiences were related by persons who had their lives completely changed by studying the Bible, including former hippies and drug addicts.

During the convention a total of 8 new Bible publications in French and English totalling 5,000 pages were released. One of them is a 1,700 page Bible encyclopedia considered to be one of the most thorough and accurate ever published.

Press, radio and television coverage of the event reached an all-time high, with information on the convention being transmitted to Europe and Africa.

"With over 150,000 persons becoming ordained ministers of Jehovah's witnesses yearly, we need these annual conventions to develop our organization and to keep pace with the progressive information in the Bible", said W. Lidster, local representative.

Weekly Meditation

CONTRIBUTED BY STIRLING CLERGYMEN

BY REV. GEORGE HARKES
EXCHANGE MINISTER
ST. PAUL'S UNITED CHURCH

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above. Hymn 376

Fellowship of Christ's Church is something precious and worthwhile. But in its true New Testament meaning it is not only for those inside the Christian Church but also for those outside. We are to bring others into the fellowship of the Church.

Perhaps there is nothing so important in this day to pray and influence by word and witness the outsider. It was for the outsider that Christ came - to seek and to serve them.

It is a strange phenomenon that when strangers came into the Church wherever she may be, all sorts of questions are asked. All sorts of gossip arises and it seems that the Church has forgotten that Christ died for ALL men. The Church is too respectable. The Church tends to forget how to welcome the outsider and to save him.

C. T. Studd, the great English missionary, used to repeat four lines of doggerel,

"Some want to live within the sound
Of Church or Chapel bell;
I want to run a rescue shop
Within a yard of hell,"

Maybe the Church would be better employed seeking the outsider instead of trying to pamper him; looking after the defaulter instead of merely blaming him; praying for him instead of just wishing him good luck; then the Church would be engaged in pioneering missionary work and so bear the stamp of the Master!

WEEKLY REPORT FROM FOXBORO DISTRICT

CO-OP

(BY JACK WOOD)

I suppose many farm businessmen take soil tests, or have them taken, at a time of year when the results are timely for spring planted crops. But how many of us pay enough attention to having soils tested for the late summer or fall planted crops?

Dairymen and crop farmers will be getting ready in a few weeks to put fall wheat into the ground, or fall planted forage crops. Market gardeners will be planting fall crops of lettuce, cabbage and other greens before too long.

Sure, the ground is hard in many locations right now because of the lack of rain and the extreme heat, but it isn't impossible to get the necessary samples that you need. And don't you agree that a soil test now is going to be more useful to you, than one taken in October?

It is a good idea to have the soil test results about a month before you plant your fall crops. It takes a little while to get the results, so you should move on it sometime in early July.

Summertime is a good time to consider liming your soil, if you happen to have land that needs it. And it doesn't matter to the crop when the lime is applied. The only way you can tell this is to have the soil Ph tested. If you do need lime, you are going to need to work with your Agricultural Representative if you want to capitalize on the freight subsidy, so contact him first.

Let Us Do It For You.

If you are one of our many readers who each week take time to look up a suitable wrapper, a bottle of mucilage, the pen and ink, then take time to address it and place a 6¢ stamp thereon and then go out and mail your used copy to someone living a distance from the home town, we would suggest it would be much simpler to bring or send to our office $4.50 for a year's subscription (in Canada) and let us do all the mailing and addressing, etc. There is another advantage, too. The recipient will receive a fresh copy of the Stirling News-Argus weekly and will get it sooner, because it will be mailed at the same time as your own is mailed.
